

Before the story is heard it is stitched together Suture- sutra –thread-a story is there to be told and heard-and through its telling a connection is made from the listener to the story teller-

I heard once, music does not exist unless its listened to, the same with a story - it is there to be heard The strangers' story is unique but familiar We welcome them in